INTRODUCTION.

The Ufc of the Ben is of so great Importance to Mankind in general, and fo indispensably necessary for the Man of Business, that I think it needless to make any Apology for the Lublication of this Work

However, fince fomething may be expected, by nay of Breface, to a Book soulseful and Entertaining; I shall take the Liberty to transcribe of Thoughts of a very ingenious Author on this Occafion; which I imagine will not only be instructive, but also very applicable to my present Undertaking.

WRITING is the first Step, and Essential in furnishing out the Man of Business. And this Qualification is more excellent, as this more useful in Business, and beautiful to the Eye, is may not improperly be considered in two Respects, as it proceeds from the Eye and the Hand; From the one, we have Size and Broportion, From the other, Boldness and Freedom. For as the Exactness of the Eye fixes the Heights and Distances; so the Motion of the Joints, and Rosition of the Hand, determine the black and fine Strokes, and give the fame Inclination and Likeness in the Standing & Turn of the Letters.

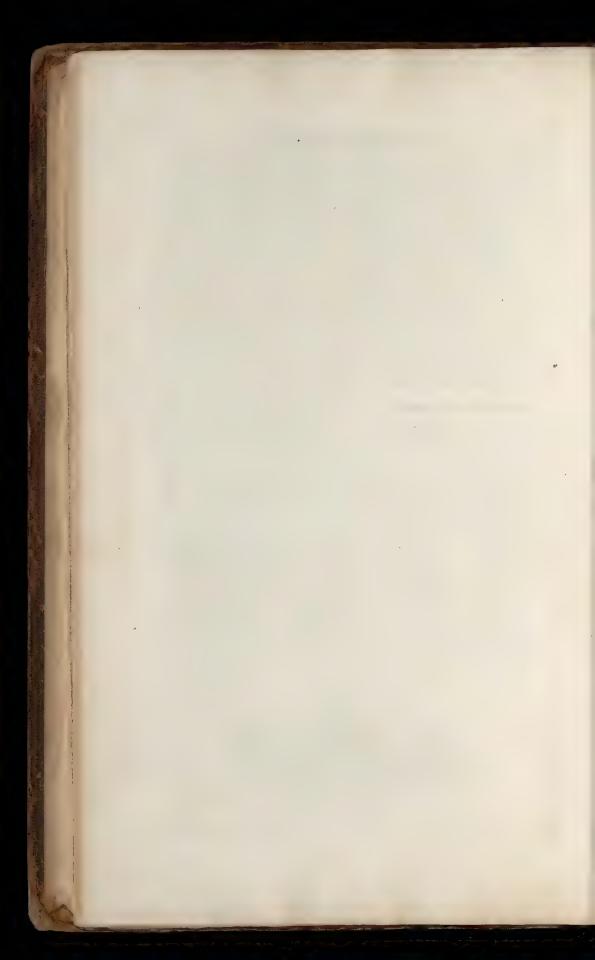

But, in Order to write well, there must be zust Rules given, and much Practice to put 'em in Execution. Plain, Strong, and neat Writing, as it best anfwers the Design for Use and Beauty; fo it has most obtaind among Men of Bufinefs. A full, free, open Letter, struck at once, as it discovers more of Nature fo it gives a Masterly Beauty to the Writing; to which may be added fuch ornamental

INTRODUCTION.

Turns of the Den, as feem rather design'd to fill up.Vacancies on the Paper, Than ftudiously compos'd to adorn the Liece. In Flourishing the Fancy would be follucuriant, was it not corrected by the Judgment, as almost to destroy the End of Writing; as Airs in Musick, when too often repeated, or too long or too variously performed, disorder the Harmony of a just Composure. But, as above, if Usefulness and Beauty are the Excellencies of Writing; that which will, with the greatest Facility, contribute to these, is the best Method of Teaching, Suppofing, therefore, the Make and Broportion of the Letters and Joinings to be once well fixed and understood, and then if the Learner is usid to copy the great Variety of Examples which are here produced, his Hand will... grow confirm'd in an Aphthide and Readiness, which will insensibly arrive at Perfection and Dispatch; and give in Writing, what we admire in fine Gentlemen; an Easine s of Gesture, and disengaged Air; which is imperceptibly caught from frequently conversing with the Lolite and Well-bred. ___ DRAWING is another necefsary Qualification, and therefore I have attempted to make the Decorations of this Work fit for the imitation of those, whofe Genius prompts them to the Study of that Art: But as Writing is the most Useful Accomplishment of & two, I have given a larger Number of Specimens for that purpose; Exhibited in Precepts Divine and Moral, with many Examples in Trade and Businefs. _ And as the Whole is compleated, through if friendly Afsistance of several Eminent Lenmen, and Engravid with the greatest Care and Exactness; I make no doubt but it will meet with a favourable Reception from the Bublick;& that I my Self shall be excusil for attempting so Universal a Gerformance -

LETTERS.

By the Afsistance of Letters the Memory of spast Things is preserved, and the Foreknowledge. of some Things to come is Revealed: By Them even Things Inanimate Instruct and Admonish Us.

Inscription is the Language of a Comb;

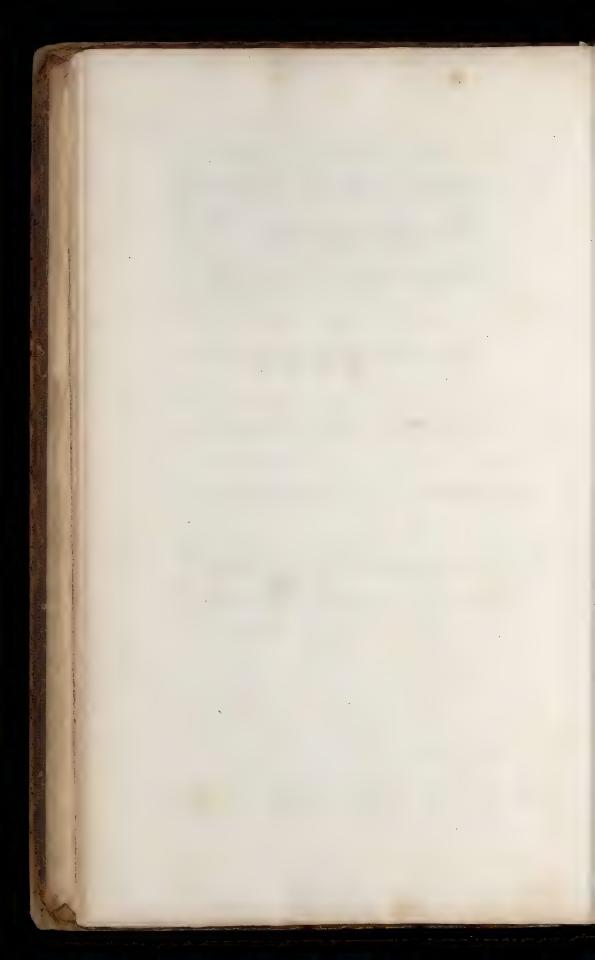

Art can by Letters speak when Nature's dumb

Letters annihilate intervenient Time, and make past Ages present; So that the Living and Dead converse together, and who this Advantage, that we may learn from the Admonitions of the Dead, that which the Living dare not, or care not to fay to Us.

READING and WRITING.

By the Arts of Reading and Writing, we can fit at Home and acquaint our felves with what is done in all the distant Parts of the World,& find what our Fathers did long ago in the first Ages of Mankind.

The Art of Letters does, as it were revive all the past Ages of Men and fets them at once upon the Stage; and brings all the Nations from afar, and gives them, as it were, a general Interview; so that the most distant Ages of Mankind Q may converse together, and grow into Acquaintance.

Among all the Inventions of Mankind none is more Q Admirable, necessary, reseful or convenient than Writing, by S (which as Man is enabled to delineate his very Conceptions, communicate his Mind without Speaking, and correspond with his Friend at ten thousand Miles distance, and all by the Contrivance of twenty four Letters. #### EDUCATION.

A human Soul without Education is like Marble in the Quarry, which shews none of its inherent Beauties till the skill of the Polisher fetches out the Colours, and discovers the ornamental Clouds that runs thro the body of it. Education draws out to View every latent Virtue with without such Helps would never be able to make their Appearance.

We rise above one another in y Efteem of y World by different degrees of Perfection, proportion'd to the Want or Advantage of a liberal Education.

The care of Education is a work of y highest Moment, as all y Advantages or Abuscarriges of a Man's Life, are in a great Measure dependent on it. Tis y Duty therefore of Larents to infuse into y untainted Youth early notices of Justice 3: Honour, that so y possible Udvantages of good Larts may not take an Evil turn, or be perverted to base & unworthy purposes.

STRTUE?

As Virtue in general is of an amiable and lovely Nature, there are some particular kinds of it which are more so than others, und thefe are such as dispofe us to do good to Mankind. Temperance and Abstinence, Faith & Devotion, are in themfelves perhaps as laudable as any other Virtues, but those withake a Man popular & belové, are Justice, Charity, Munificence, and in short, all y good qualities y render us beneficial to each other.

The two great ornaments of Virtue, which shew her in the most advantagious Vienz and make her altogether lovely, are Chearfulness and Good Nature A These generally go together, as a Man cannot be agreeable to others who is not easy within himself. These are both very requisite in a virtuous mind to keep out Melancholy from the many serious. Thoughts it is inguged in, and to hinder it's natural hatred of Vice from son'ring into Severity and Censoriousness.

LEARNING.

The Design of Learning, is either to render a Man an agreeable Companion to himself, and teach him to support Solizude with Lleasure; or, if he is not born to an Estate, to supply that Defect, and furnish him with the Means of getting one.

Nobility, Riches, State, and Supremacy can procure us a customary Respect, & make us the Idols of an unthinking Croud; but Knowledge and Learning alone recommends us to the Love of those in a superior Class, who admire more the Mexits of our Understanding, than the Advantages of our Birth & Fortune.

From Art and Science true Contentment flow: For tis a Godlike Attribute to Linow

Knowledge is that which next to Virtue truely and efsentially raises one Man above another; it finishes one half of the human Soul; it makes Beings pleasant to us; it fills the Mind with entertaining Views, & administers to it a perpetual Series of Gratifications; it gives ease to Solitude, & a gracefulnefs to Retirement; it fills a Publick Station with Suitable Abilities, & adds a luster to those who are in possession of them.

In Nature's Search we to the Cause advance;, But Knowledge must inform our Ignorance:, To judge of Arts we must their Objects know,, And from the Current to the Spring we go Merit should be for ever placed S In Knowledge, Judgment, Wit, & Taste. For these, 'tis own'd, without dispute, S Alone diftinguish Man from Brute.

Industry 3

So true to Industry, and so zealous for Employment have nife_ Men been in all Ages, that they have looked upon Idleness and _ Inactivity as Crimes of a heinous Hature, and those niho have _ search'd into Human Nature observe, that nothing so much _ shows the Nobleness of Soul, as 'y it's Telicity consists in Action.

Industry is needful in every condition of Life; we cannot without — it act in any State decently, or usefully, either to the benefit or satisfaction of others, or to our own Advantage or Comfort; it is requifit for procuring Ease Sweet and Satisfaction to the Mind, attended—with a good Confeience, sweetens our Enjoyments, and scafons our — Uttainments, is a Guard to Innocence and a Boar to Temptations.—

If we look back into the Old World, we shall find that all its Vigour was owing to Exercise;

Sprightlinefs, and Activity: Luxury & Idlenefs, first debilitated,& impair'd if strength of Nature...

The first Divisions by Debauch were made.

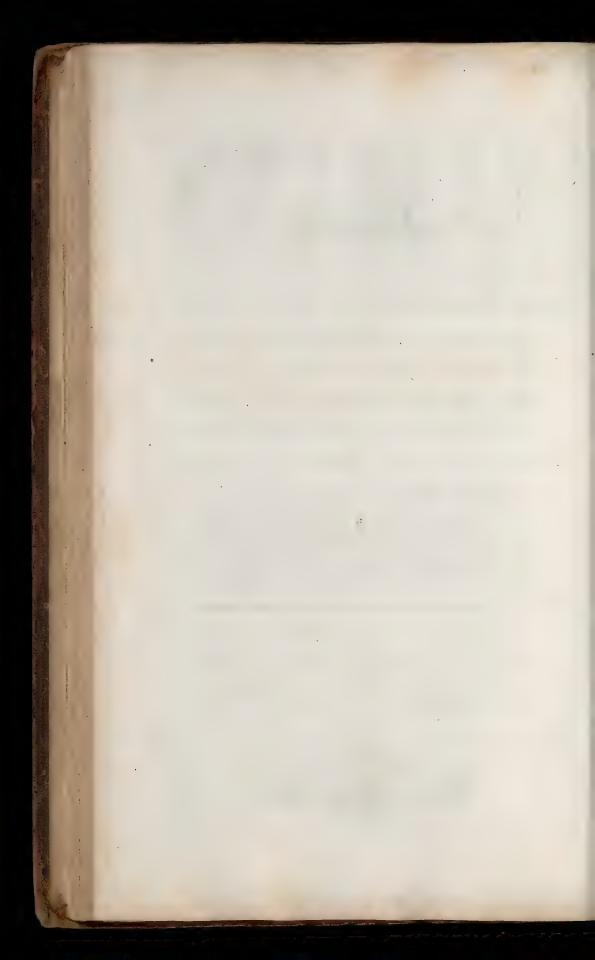

Excess began and Stoth sultains the Trade.

By Chace our Long-liv'd Sathers earn'd their Lood,

Toil string the Nerves and purify'd the Blood.

Action keeps the Soul in constant Health, but Idlenefs, corrupts, and rusts the Mind; for a Man of great Abilities may by Negligence & Idlenefs become so mean & despicable, as to be an Incumbrance to Society, and a Burthen to himself.

HONESTY.

An honest Man's Dealings are square and above-board; he discovers the Faults of what he would sell; restores the over seen Gain of a false Reckoning; and esteems a Bribe venemous, tho it comes gilded over with the Colour of Gratuity.

Short is the Date in which ill Acts prevail, without Dissembling, and he loves Actions above words; hates falshood worse than Death; is a faithful Client of Truth and no Man's Enemy.

Discretion does not only shew it self in Words, but in all the Circumstances of Action, and is like an Under-Agent of Providence to guide and directs us in the ordinary Concerns of Life.

If we look into particular Communities & Divisions of Men, we may observe that it is the Discreet Man not the Witty, nor the Learned, nor the Brave who guides the Conversation, and gives Measures to the Society.

There are many shining Qualities in the Minds of Men, but there is none so useful as Diference; it is this indeed which gives a Value to all the rest, which sets them at Work in their proper Times and Places, & turns them to the Advantage of the Lerfon who is possessed of them.

Falshood.

Whatsoever Convenience may be thought to be in Falshood. and Difsimulation, it is soon over; but the Inconvenience of it is perpetual, because it brings a Man under an everlasting Jealousy and Suspicion; so that he is not believed when he s speaks Truth, nor trusted when, perhaps, he means Honestly.

Let Justice o'er thy Words and Deed preside; And Falshood shun as a Decentful Guide.

An Untruth in Discourse is a Disagreement between the Speech and the Mind of the Speaker. When one thing is Declar'd and another Meant, words are no Image of the Shoughts: it makes the Marks of Speech insignificant, and the Meaning of one Man unintelligible to another, this is a breach of the Article of Commerce, and an Invasion upon the Rights of Society.

One great Mark, by which you may discover a Critick who has neither.

Tafte nor Learning, is this, that he seldom ventures to praise any Lafsage, in an Author which has not been before received and applauded by the ......

This part of a Critick is so very easie to succeed in, that we find every ordinary Reader, upon y publishing of a new Loem, has Witz Ill nature enough, to turn several Pafsages of it into Ridicule, and very often in y right Place...

Errors, like Mraws, upon the Surface flow?

The who would search for Pearls must dive below.

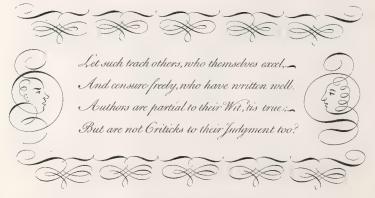

A true Critick ought to dwell rather upon Excellencies than Imperfections, to discover the concealed Beauties of a Writer, and communicate to the World such things a as are worth their Observation. The most exquisite Worlds and finest Strokes a of an Author, are those which very often appear the most doubtful and exceptionable, to a Man who wants a Relish for polite Learning; and they are these, when a sour undistinguishing Critick generally attacks with \( \gamma\) greatest 1 idence.

In Poets, as true Genius is but rare, True Tast as seldom is the Critick's share, Both must alike from Heav'n derive their Light; These born to judge, as well as those to write.

Aperfect Judge will read each Work of Wit; With the same Spirit that it's Author Writ; Survey the Whole; nor seek slight Taults to find, Where Nature moves,&Rapture warms if Mind.

True Humour must always lie under the Check of Reason, and it requires the Direction of the nicest Judgment, by so much if more as it indulges it self in the most boundlefs Freedoms. In short, it must consist in a Lleasantry derived from Nature, in Vivacity and Mirth without Affectation, bounded by Truth, and supported by good Sense.

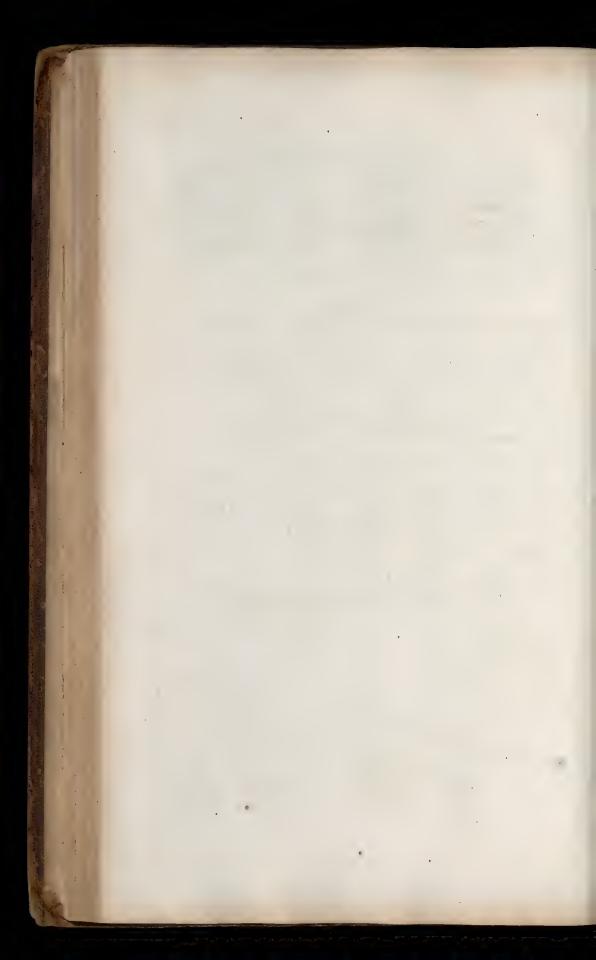

Man is the merriest Species of the Creation, all above and below him are Serious. He fees things in a different Light from other Beings, & finds his Mirth rising from Objects that perhaps cause fomething like Pity or Displeasure in higher Natures. Laughter is indeed a very good Counterpoise to the Spleen; and feems but reasonable that we fhould be capable of receiving Joy from what is no real Good to us, fince we can receive Grief from what is no real Evil. April, 11.

Laughter, while it lasts, flackens & unbraces the Mind; weakens the Faculties, and caufes a kind of Remi feness and Difsolution in all the Powers of the Soul; & thus far it may be looked upon as a Weakness in the Composition of human nature. But if we consider the frequent Reliefs that we receive from it, & how often it breaks y Gloom which is apt to depress the Mind, and damp our Spirits with transient unexpected gleams of Joy, one would take care not to grow too Wise for so great a Pleasure of Life.

Oblervations on Marriage;

By way of ADVICE.

INTRODUCTION.

Efore Marriage we cannot be too inquifitive and difcerning in the Faults of the Person beloved, nor after it too dim-sighted and superficial. However persect and accomplished the Person appears to you at a distance, you will find many Blemishes and Impersections in their Humour, upon a more intimate Acquaintance, which you never discovered or perhaps suspected.— Here therefore Discretion and Good-nature are to shew their Strength; the first will hinder your Thoughts from dwelling on what is disagreeable, the other will raise in you all the tenderness of Compassion and Humanity, and by degrees sosten those very Imperfections into Beauties.

In Anptials bleit, each loofe Delire we ihnn;

Like Zettxis first with hembling Hand defign.

Some humble Work, and fludy Line by Line D.,

A Roman Urn, a Grove-encircled Bon'r,

The blushing Cherry, or the bending Flow'r.

Painful and Sow to Noble Arts we rife,

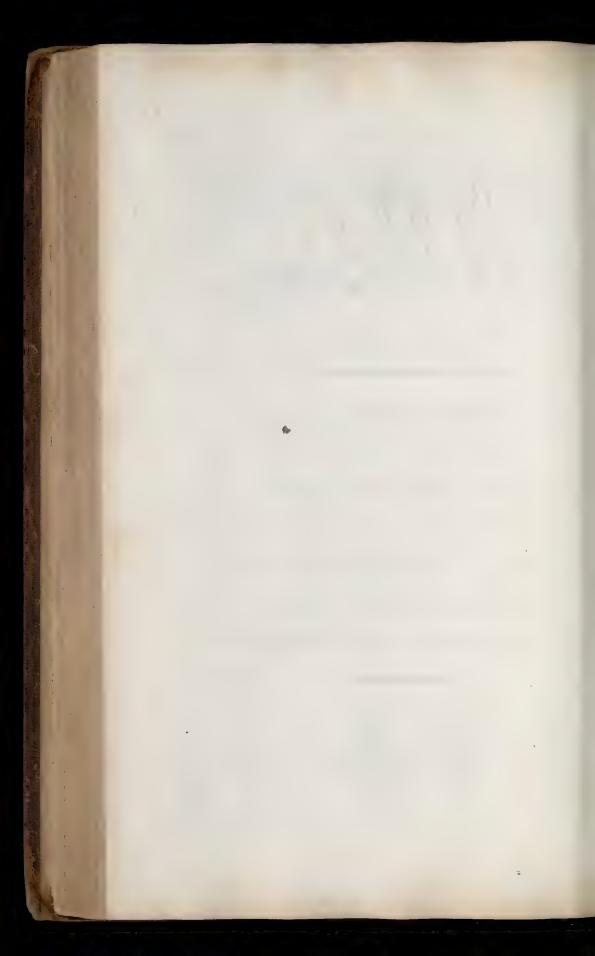

And long long Labours wait the glorious firize.

Yet by Degrees your fleadier Hand shall give Abolder Grace, and bid each Object live D.

Evin Raphael's felf from rude Efsays began,

And fhadow'd with a Coalhis shapelefs Man.

In Ancient Times, when Dainting First began, A Len, or Chalk, thus imitated Man.

Long time the Sister Arts, in Fron Steep ().

A heavy Sabbath did Supinety keep:

At length, in Raphael's (Ige ut once they rive, )

Stretch all their Limbs, z open all their Eyes.

Thence rose the Roman & the Lombard Lines,

One Colourd best, and one did best Design O.

Raphael's, like Homer's, was the nobler Lart;

But Titian's Sainting look'd like Virgil's Art.

. By slow Degrees the Painting Art advanced ?— As Man grew polish'd, Picture was inhanc'd.)—

Solorooks.

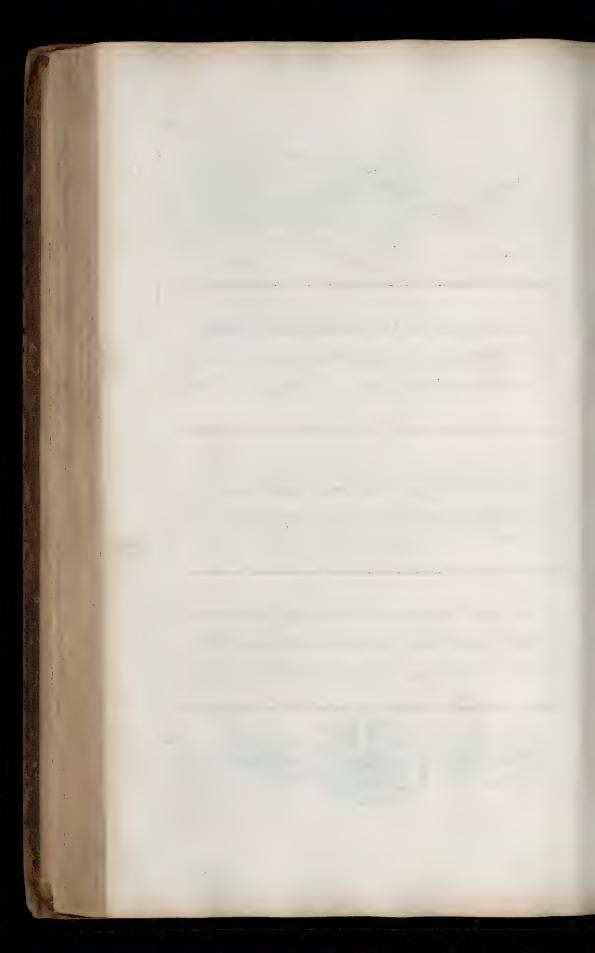

Twas a Saying of Xenophon, that, Nothing pleases _ a Man so much as Decency & Order: And 'tis a Rule in Horace, which is equally Just in Lainting as in Poetry.

Set all things in their own peculiar placet.

And know, that Order is the greatest grace.

This good Occonomy, or distribution of Figures and Strokes in their proper places, produces the same Effect, in relation to the Eyes, as a Concert of Musick to the Ears.

Promissory Notes.

Promissory Note mentioning Order is inderfible from one Person to another; which is done by the present Possessor's writing his Name on the Back of it, and delivering it up to the Party, to whom he intends to assign over his Property therein.

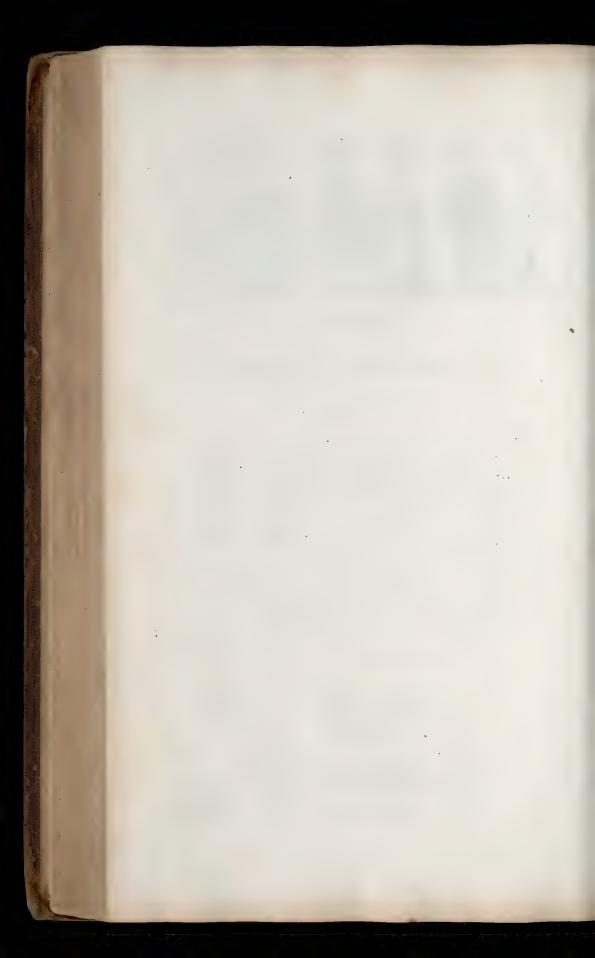

It is unnecessary to have a Promissory Note payable to Beaver indorsed, if you are satisfy'd the Note is good: And if a Note be indorsed, it is necessary to write a Receipt thereon, to prevent its being negociated, after it is paid and deliver'd up.

If the Drawer of a Note refuses Payment, the Note is good against the Indorfer.

The delivering up a Promissory Note to the Person who sign'd it is a sufficient Voucher of its being paid, nor is there any Occasion of writing a Receipt thereon.

Promissory Notes, and Book-Debts, if not legally demanded in sure Years cannot be recovered by Law: And if you keep a Promissory Note upon Demand, in your own Hands above three Days, and the Person it's upon should fail, the Loss will be your own; but if he fail within the three Days it will light on the Person that paid it you. # Distinguishing Marks of A orne Sine Dentleman.

When a good Artist would laprefs any remarkable Character in Sculpture, he 🔫 endeavours to Work up his Figure into all the Perfection his Imagination can form; and to imitate not so much what is as what may or ought to bee. I shall follow their example, in the Idea I am going to trace out of a fine Gentleman, by afsembling together fuch 2-Qualifications as feem requisite to make the Character compleat. In Order to this, I shall premife in general, that by a sine Gentleman I mean a Man compleatly qualified as well for the Service and Good, as for the Ornament and Delight of Society. When I consider the Frame of Mind piculiar to a Gentleman, I Suppose it graced with all the Dignity and Clevation of Spirit that Human Nature is capable of To this Invould have joined a clear Understanding, a Reason free from Prejudice, a Steady Judgment, and an extensive Knowledge. When I think of the Heart of a Gentheman, I imagine it firm and intrepid, void of all inordinate Passions, and full of Tendernefs, Compassion, and Benevolence. When I view the fine Gentleman with regard to his Manners, methinks I see him Modest without Bashfulnefs, frank and affable without Impertinence, obliging and complaisant without Servility, Cheerful and in good Humour without Noise These amiable Qualities are not easily obtained; neither are there many Men, that have a Genius to excel this Way. A finished Gentleman is perhaps the most uncommon of all the great Characters in Life. Besides the natural Indonments with which this distinguished Manis to be born, he must run through a long Series of Education. Before he makes his Appearance and Shines in the World, he must be principled in Religion, instructed in all the moral Virtues, and led through the whole Course of the polite Arts and Sciences. He should be no Atranger to Courts and to Camps; he must Travel to open his Mind, to enlarge his Views, to learn the Policies and Interest of foreign States, as well as to fashion and polish himself, and to get clear of National Prejudices; of which every Country has its Ihare. To all these more effectial Improvements, he must not forget to add the fashionable Ornaments of Life, such as are the Languages and the bodily Exercises most in Voque: Neither would I have him think even Drefs it Left beneath his Notices.

Salta Parte For

It is no very uncommon Thing in the World to meet with Men of Probity; athere are likewise a great many of Honour to be found: Men of Courage, Men of Sense, and Men of Letters are frequent: But a true fine Gentleman is what one weldom sees. He is properly a Compound of the various good Qualities that embellish Mankind. As the great Poet animates all the different Parts of Learning by the Force of his Genius, and irradiates all the Compafs of his Knowledge by the Lustre and Brightness of his Imagination; so all the great and solid Perfections of Life appear in the finished Gentleman, with a beautiful Gloß and Varnish covery thing he says or does is accompanied with a Manner, or rather a Charmof that draws the Admiration and Good-will of every Beholder.

Besides Poverty and Want, there are other Reasons that debase the Minds of Men, who live under Tyranny, though I look on this as the Principal of It is odd to consider the Connection between Despotic Government and possible of the Barbarity, & how if making of one Person more than Man, makes if rest lefs.

By no fet Laws, but by her Will obey'd.

Her fearful Slaves, to full Obedience grown,

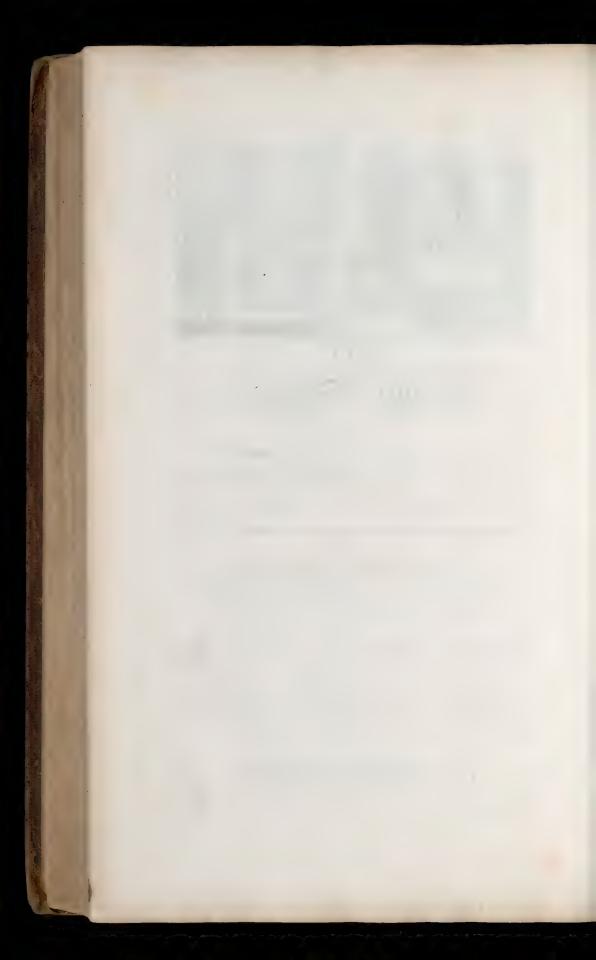

Admire her Strength, dare not use their own.

If there be but one Body of Legislators, it is no better than a Fyranny; if there are and only two, there will want a casting Voice, and one of them must at length be fwallow'd up by Disputes and Contentions: Four would have the fame Inconvenience as a two, and a greater Number would cause too much Confusion: Therefore a mixtagovernment consisting of three Branches, of Regal, of Woble, of the Popular, is the best.

By the late DUKE of Devonshire,

O despicable State of all that groam a Under a blind Dependency on One?!.

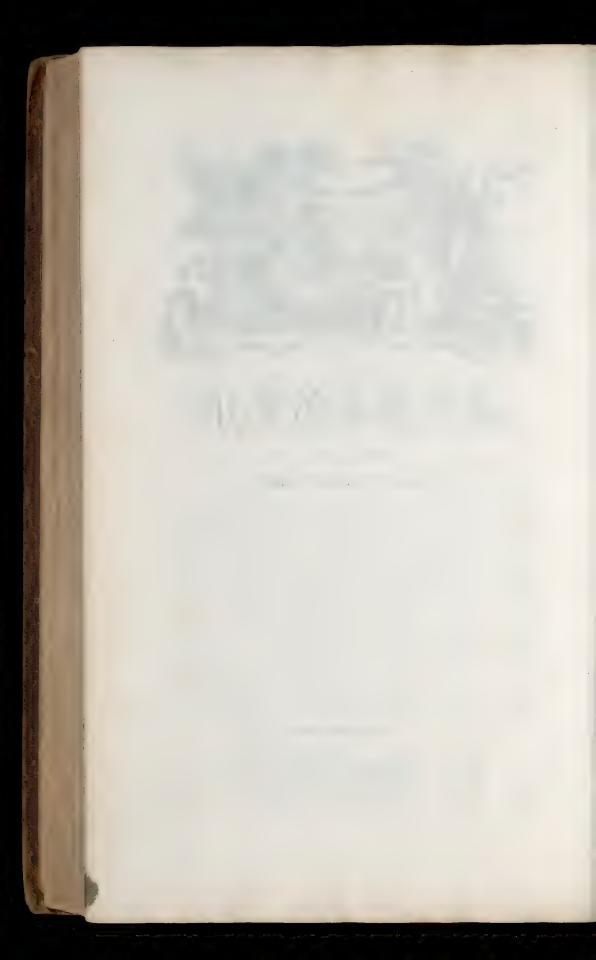

How far inferior to the Herds that range,
With Native Treedom over the Woods & Plains!

With them no Fallacies of Schools prevail,
Nor of a Right Divine the nauseous Fale,
Can give to one among themselves the Pow'r,
Without Controul his Sellows to devour.

To reasoning Human Kind alone belong,
The Urts to hurt them felves by reasoning wrong.

Howere the foolish Notion first began, _
Of trusting Absolute to lawlefs Man;
Howere a Tyrant may by Force fulfist;
For who would be a slave that can refist.
Those fet the Cafuist fafest on the Throne;
Who make the Leople's Interest their own.
And chusing rather to be loved than fear'd,
Are Kings of Men, not of a fervile Gerd.
OLiberty, too late desir'd, when loft, _
Like bealth, when wanted, thou art valuit most!

The Hebren is the Morld, at Seast that is known to the Europeans: The square

Hebren Character is originally the Chaldee Character, which the Jens afsumed during the Babylonish Captivity.

As particular Companies of Men became Inhabitants of different parts of the World, and had different Languages, so they invented various Characters: The Greeks and Romans have herein been most famous, and their Characters are chiefly us'd in Europe; but the Oriental Nations Shave their own peculiar manner of Writing; several Specimens of which, may be seen in the following Lages.

The Alphabet is the whole Order of the Letters in any Language 2, — from Alpha and Beta, the two first Letters in the Greek Longue. —
The English Uphabet contains twenty his Letters, but others differ — cin their Number and Form, and vary in their Placing and Writing. —
The Hebrews write from the Right band to the Left; Others from —

All our English Alphabets are exhibited in the two next. Pages. — opn these Alphabets with all your care.
